Cover Story: Chet and Becky Wiseneski are the proud owners of this beauty. This 1965 Futura Convertible is Vintage Burgundy with black interior, and is powered by a 289 V-8 with a C-4 tranny. This award-winning ride is just one of the many Fords in the Wiseneski fleet. They also have a 1964 Sprint as well as other vintage Fords. Chet said that he has always had a soft spot for Falcons. He acquired his first Falcon, a 1964 Futura, the day after he graduated from high school. One year later he purchased a 1964 Sprint. The effort and hard work Chet has put into this Falcon is obvious. Chet and Becky are active members of the Keystone Chapter. It is FCA members like these who are what the FCA is all about. Keep up the great work!

President's Message

April 1997

Since the formation of the Newsletter Committee in July, by President Hatcher, there has been much activity by the members. Everything from talking with fellow FCA members, to talking to the post office, to working with printers, to reviewing other clubs' publications, to talking with editors of other newsletters, to talking with computer dealers.

The following is a list summarizing the input we have received from our members on what they would like to see in our newsletters.

- Continue to Publish Monthly
- Add More Color
- Add More Pictures
- Add More Technical Information
- Develop Standard Format
- Make Full Size - 8 1/2 x 11
- Received by First Week of Month
- Better Coverage on Regionals
- Less Space Allowed for Registration for the Regionals
- Continue First Class Postage

Well, as you can imagine, this was quite a task. We hope you like what you see.

We would like to thank everyone for their input. But the work has just begun; this is your newsletter and your club. We need your input for pictures, tech tips and chapter news.

Responsibility for the construction of the newsletter will be divided up as follows:

Editor - Kathy Lerner - Classified ads, Vendor ads, the Calendar of Events and Chapter News.

Tech Advisor - Bob Passino - Technical tips

Happy Falconing!

EXCESSIVE BRAKE PEDAL TRAVEL—All Car Lines with Self Adjusting Brakes

Excessive brake pedal travel on passenger vehicles with self-adjusting brakes has been found to be the result of one or more of the brake adjuster screw assemblies seizing and failing to operate. To alleviate excess pedal travel caused by this condition, the following corrective procedure is suggested:

1. Remove all four brake drums.
2. Disconnect the adjusting lever from the secondary shoe and remove the adjuster screw and nut assembly.

NOTE: As the adjusting screw and nut assemblies are right- and left-handed, and interchanging the assemblies from one side of the vehicle to the other will cause the brake shoes to retract rather than expand upon action of the adjuster lever, each assembly should be cleaned and lubricated completely before proceeding to the next assembly.

3. Disassemble and clean the adjuster screw and nut assembly.

4. Apply a thin uniform coating of HD Moly Grease—Grade 2 (Ford Part No. CIAZ-19590-B) to the threads of the adjuster screw and reassemble the adjuster screw and nut.

5. Install the adjuster screw and nut assembly to the brake shoes and connect the adjuster lever.

6. Repeat steps 3 thru 5 for each remaining assembly.

7. Install all drums and adjust brakes.

8. Check brake operation.

NOTE: Either new or used adjuster screw and nut assemblies should always be lubricated before installation.

AUTOMATIC CHOKE CONNecTOR HOSE INSTALLATION—1963 & 1964, All Eight-Cylinder Engines

A rubber hose connects the choke inlet tube to the air cleaner to provide filtered air to the automatic choke. The hose connection is located on the underside of the air cleaner and can be easily overlooked when the air cleaner is removed and/or installed. Failure to connect the hose to the air cleaner will result in unfiltered air entering the choke system. A potentially dangerous condition could also be encountered on the Galaxie, Mercury and Thunderbird 390 4 Venturi engines when the connector hose is not connected at the air cleaner. This may result in the end of the hose becoming wedged under the secondary throttle lever and prevent full closing of the throttle plates, on deceleration.

HOT STARTING AND HOT IDLE IMPROVEMENTS – 1963 Ford & Fairlane – 8 Cylinder (221/260)

To improve hard hot starting and rough hot idle of the 221/260 engines, revised carburetor bowl vents have been incorporated in the 2V Ford carburetor air horn. This has been done to limit the excess fuel vapors in the carburetor bowl from entering the air cleaner during hot idle and soak periods. The excess fuel vapors will cause hard hot restarts and poor idle.

The change was effective with carburetors built December 14.

1962. Check either the carburetor identification tag or visually inspect the vent tubes. The internal diameter of the new vent tubes is smaller.

The new air horn (Ford Part No. C30Z-9524-B) incorporating these vent tube restrictors can be installed on all 1963 and past models with 221 and 260 CID engines.

The new air horn (Ford Part No. C30Z-9524-B) incorporating these vent tube restrictors can be installed on all 1963 and past models with 221 and 260 CID engines.

STARTER SOLENOID DAMAGE DURING TUNE-UP — All Car Lines

Starter solenoid burnout in the ignition bypass circuit will occur if the "I" terminal of the solenoid or the positive terminal of the coil is grounded during cranking. This condition cannot occur by itself and must be attributed to an incorrect underhood procedure.

The ignition bypass circuit connects the battery to the coil through the solenoid plunger and the "I" terminal. See the Schematic in Page 6, Figure #1. The bypass conductor is of heavy material and is not damaged in normal use, but in a short circuit such as described, burnout is very rapid. Many of the solenoids that have been examined for failures, have been found to be burned out in this manner.

The underhood shortcut of using a jumper between the "S" terminal of the starter solenoid and the hot battery post to "bump" the engine over, has been used for many years and is an acceptable practice. This is not to be confused with the above condition. It is grounding the "I" terminal of the solenoid or the positive terminal of the coil to prevent the engine from running that is not acceptable. The recommended procedure, when working on the engine but not to have it run, is to remove the coil tower lead from the coil or distributor cap prior to turning it over.

HOT ENGINE IDLE STALL—1963 Ford Single Venturi Carburetor — 144, 170, 223, 262 Engines

Investigation has shown an occasional hot engine idle stall due to an over-rich fuel-air mixture. This condition can be corrected by adjusting the float assembly to a one inch dry fuel setting.

When readjusting to this dry fuel setting, remove the fuel inlet seat and replace the fiber seat gasket with a rubber coated aluminum seat gasket, (Ford Part No. C3AZ-9569-B). The use of the coated aluminum gasket will in effect shim up the fuel inlet seat, minimizing float tab correction.

If excessive float tab corrections are made while attempting to set the float level, it is possible to exert excessive side thrust on the fuel inlet needle which will prevent proper seating of the needle to the seat.

INOPERATIVE FRONT LAMPS — 1963 Falcon

A short circuit may occur in the headlamp, parking lamp, or turn signals on early 1963 Falcons in the main wiring harness that crosses the radiator support. It is caused by improper harness retention which results in the harness chafing on the screws that mount the hood auxiliary catch striker plate. (Figure #1, View B) This chafing wears through the insulation and results in a short circuit.

The above problem was corrected in production on January 23, 1963, with the use of the new radiator support. The service correction is to properly install the harness retaining straps as shown in Figure #1, View A. The straps can be removed quickly by tapping them through the radiator support from the front with a small hammer. They can easily be installed by pushing them back into the support with a 5/16 socket. If any of the straps are damaged during repositioning, use Ford Part No. 3723633 for replacement..

Falcon

Maybe at every single Falcon Nationals event since the second one was held ...and it was driven to every one of them! How many other members can claim this record for their car?

This 1962 fieldstone tan Futura two-door sedan is no garage queen. Glen Vandierendonk and his family have used this car on all their family vacation outings for nearly twenty years now, and except for one transmission mishap coming back from a National show in St. Louis several years ago, this old reliable 170 cubic inch six-cylinder three-speed has always gotten the family back home in style.

Where H
Seen T
Befo

The family enjoys the "thumbs up" recognition by other drivers on the highway, especially because they know how much effort went into getting this car in this condition.

This pretty little car was restored from a $75 body found behind a service station and the running gear from another old '62 deluxe that gave up its drive train. Glen did all the work himself except for the headliner and paint. And...that paint still looks good twenty years later, despite the little nicks and scratches "earned" along the way to another Falcon event.

I know that Glen plans many more miles in those tan and white vinyl bucket seats as he charts his way to the Suncoast National to be held in Florida this July!

Glen and his lovely wife Evelyn have been members of the Mid-America Chapter since its beginning in the early eighties.
